To provide a fun session which:

- Promotes networking and communication within the group
- Have a tangible end to the event
- Allows delegates to get away from the conference room

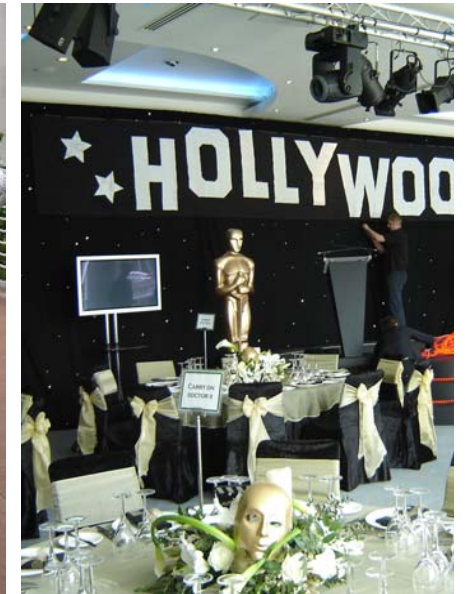

Solution

80 people were split into 8 teams and assigned the task of reproducing their own version of a classic movie. Pirates of the Caribbean, Carry On Doctor, Harry Potter and Batman.

After writing their own script the teams made their way into the heart of Manchester to film their movie equipped with a video camera, a selection of props and their imaginations!

After 3 hours they all returned to the Lowry to share tales of their adventures and bewildered members of the public giving them strange looks!

Their efforts were then edited into 3 minute films by our onsite crew, before being shown over dinner. Needless to say, very few of the teams stuck to the original film scripts, with most choosing to add a slightly “Blue” tinge to their movies! The glitzy Oscar ceremony, which followed, was the perfect ending to a fantastic day.

“I just wanted to say ‘thank you’ for all your help. Everyone really enjoyed themselves, all the comments were very positive, and the winning group were celebrating for a very long time!” “You guys were great.”
